Tips for Expats

Getaway of the Month

Pastorelas

In Mexico, during Christmas season, in schools, kermesses, family gatherings and even in some social events, small plays which main characters are the shepherd of Bethlehem and the Holy Family are represented. These Nativity plays show how Virgin Mary and Saint Joseph traveled and struggled to welcome the Saviour.

The first Nativity play took place during 1530.

The Christmas "Aguinaldo" in Mexico

Christmas bonus is an amount of money given by companies to employees in the public or private sector to face end-of-year expenses such as Holiday vacations and gifts. Originally this benefit was only a reward that the employer gave voluntarily to workers as celebration, but since 1970 it was established as obligatory for companies. It is given to employees in addition to their salary.
